

Stylus-Based Computer Input System

Abstract

A system for determining a stylus position of a stylus includes a telemetric imager and a controller electrically coupled to the telemetric imager. The controller determines the stylus position based on a generated image of a stylus tip from a first direction and a generated image of the stylus tip from a second direction when the stylus tip is in a stylus entry region. A method and a system for determining a stylus position are also disclosed.